

THE CERA: STUDY AND RESEARCH APPLIED UNIT OF BUC RESSOURCES

A department placed under the responsibility of the Director and coordinated by a qualified researcher.

Research is one of the principal strategic directions for the development of the training centers activities in French social work. BUC Ressources is affirmed today like one of the main actors of its development, while obtaining the one of the rare research laboratories in French social work.

To take part in the development of research in social work

The CERA is member of all the organizations which promote with the international scales, main road and regional the development of research in social work: member of the scientific advice of the AIFRIS (International association for the Formation you it Social Intervention), member of the editorial board of "le Sociographe" which is a review of research in social work, member of the board of trustees and Scientific committee of the GRIF (Grouping of Research of Ile-de-France) which is the regional pole of resources for research in social work, and founding member of the CERA (Applied research and Studies Center) which is a research laboratory in social work .

TO CONCEIVE APPLIED RESEARCH

In accordance with the vocation of social work, research in this professional field is applied. The permanent objective is thus to propose questionings with concrete vocation for the professional grounds. In this direction, the CERA considers its activity in close link with the true needs and forced grounds. This implication in reality is an alternative to a research on the social work which too often hesitates to put itself at the disposal of professional practices.

A TERRITORIAL ENGAGEMENT

CERA endeavors to take part in the development of their setting up area, in accordance with the approach of BUC Ressources. Research is then perceived like a full paid-up element for whole making it possible the school to take part in the socio economic development of its territory. This involvement is one of the research section which wants to be really applied.
